

The player performs a move and build action, coordinated by the game controller, with UI updates and rule checks handled before proceeding to the next turn.

