

The current player starts their turn, selects a worker, views available move actions retrieved from the GameState, and ends the turn, passing control to the next player.

